It is OKAY to be honest!

This is Shelley

- Mother of 4 kids; 45 years young
- Fitness activities: cycling, yoga, F-45 training; hiking
- Travels on every occasion that is available
- Best friend is her sister Cindy
- Degree in Criminal Justice

Meeting Shelley

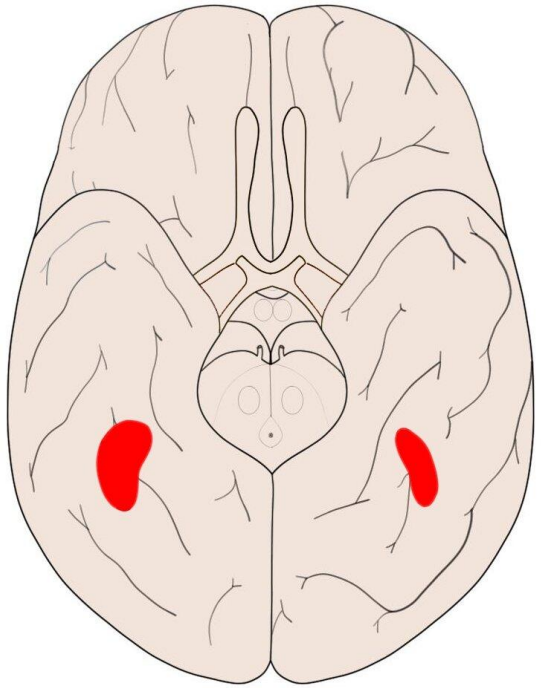

Did any of you have trouble finding Shelley?

It is OKAY to be honest!

Results

- If you got Shelley right, there is a better chance you are Caucasian/Female (or, you realized what I was doing!)
- If it was easier for you to find Ellen, there is a better chance you are Japanese
- The "Other Race" Effect: Difficulty distinguishing faces and characteristics of races other than our own.
  - Not just about environment and exposure – wired into our brains

Fusiform Face Area (FFA)

The FFA

- Helps us distinguish faces
- Differentiate the familiar from the unfamiliar; the friend from the foe
- More active (neurons firing more vigorously) when see faces of our own race
- Less active when see faces of other races
- Experiences are "tuning" our neurons and our unconscious bias
- Does not just stop at physical face identification but expands into other areas regarding beliefs and feelings about all sorts of social groups and people – "Us" v. "Them"

The Brain

"If you have a brain, you have a bias"

Dr. Jennifer Eberhardt

Stanford Professor of Psychology

Unconscious (Implicit) Bias

- Unconscious or unintentional stereotypes or processes that treat people differently
- Unintended people preferences that are formed during childhood and throughout our lives through socialization, personal experiences and representations that are put out on media (a/k/a affinity bias)
- Our experiences act as social filters by which we make judgments and assessments of people around us
  - Can be judgements of characteristics, names, body types, or anything

Human Tendencies

- Place people into social categories – often based on visual cues such as gender, race, cultural background, age, height, body size, social background, job title, religious identity, or political affiliation (not an all-inclusive list)

- The brain uses associations based on social categorization to develop bias
  - For Example: Constant exposure to women as primary school teachers or men as plumbers and organization leaders these associations become wired within the human brain

- Uses social categories to make unconscious judgements about people who are like us and people who are different from us

Why is unconscious bias (other race affect) important to attorneys?

Rule 8.4(g): an attorney shall not . . . engage in conduct that the lawyer knows or reasonably should know is harassment or discrimination on the basis of race, sex, religion, national origin, ethnicity, disability, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, marital status or socioeconomic status in conduct *related to the practice of law. This paragraph does not limit the ability of a lawyer to accept, decline or withdraw from a representation in accordance with Rule 1.16. This paragraph does not preclude legitimate advice or advocacy consistent with these Rules.

Prof. Rule of Conduct 8.4(g)

Race;
Sex;
Religion;
National Origin;
Ethnicity;
Disability;
Age;
Sexual Orientation;
Gender Identity;
Marital Status; or
Socioeconomic Status

Rule 8.4(g) - Definitions

- Discrimination: Harmful verbal or physical conduct that manifests bias or prejudice towards others

- Harassment: Conduct that is aggressively invasive, pressuring, or intimidating, and includes sexual harassment and derogatory or demeaning verbal or physical conduct

- Requisite harm is assessed using a standard of objectionable reasonableness.

Rule 8.4(g) - Defining "Practice of Law"

Model Rule 8.4(g), Comment 4:

- Representing Clients
- Interacting with witnesses, coworkers, court personnel, lawyers and others while engaged in the practice of law
- Operating or managing a law firm or law practice
- Participating in bar association, business or social activities in connection with the practice of law

Lack of Optimism

"It would be . . . Mostly accurate, to tell you that 8.4(g) is dead in the water[.]"

Recruitment

- Unconscious bias can come out in the job advertisement prior to even meeting the candidate or obtaining a resume
- Hiring Managers are more likely to put people into roles (sometimes based on a name alone) on preconceived affiliations or thoughts
- Hiring Managers are more likely to hire people who look similar, have similar names, and behave like their own characteristics

The Brain: FFA & Unconscious Bias

- Seeing images (previous slide) can intensify stereotypes
- When stereotypes are reinforced, even in simple ways (e.g., images), it can lead minorities and females to perform differently
  - Example: Female reminded of gender identity before a math test, her performance goes down. When same female is reminded that she is Asian before the math test, her performance goes up.
- Stereotypes and unconscious bias can be deeply engrained – do not even have to live in the society where the bias first emerged.
- Social media can play into unconscious biases

Statistics/Reality

- Job applicants with ethnic-sounding names working in English speaking countries like the U.S., U.K, and Canada get fewer job opportunities than people with recognizably "white" or English sounding names – despite being highly qualified!

- Canadian Study: Study out of Univ. of Toronto and Ryerson Univ. shows that equally qualified applicants with "Asian" names (e.g., Samir Sharma, Tara Singh, Ali Saeed, Hina Chaudhry, Lei Li, and Xuiying Zhang) – broad category – were 28% less likely to score an interview in Canadian companies than applicants with "Anglo" names (e.g., Greg Johnson or Emily Brown) even though all applicants were educated and employed in Canada.

Statistics/Reality

- Other studies have found the same trends in Canada throughout other countries

- "White-sounding" names in Western countries including the United States, France, Sweden, Germany, and the U.K. tend to fair better on call back interviews and jobs.
  - Sweden Example: A study in 2007 found that "white-sounding" names got 50% more call backs in Sweden than Middle Eastern names.
  - U.S. Example: Northwestern University conducted this study across countries for discrimination in hiring. No country ever discriminated more against "white" individuals. Only used countries with data in the field already.
    - France – 83% discrimination (highest); Germany – 24% discrimination (lowest)
    - United States ranked as the 3rd lowest at 33% discrimination.
  - U.S. Example: Another U.S. example (next slide)

Example: 2003 Study in Chicago/Boston

- Researchers did a field experiment where they sent almost 5000 resumes to more than 1300 employment ads in Chicago and Boston newspapers for jobs in sales, administrative help, clerical and customer services.
- They recorded how many people were contacted for an interview. Half were sent with stereotypically White sounding names like “Emily Walsh” or “Greg Baker,” and the other half with stereotypically Black names like “Lakisha Washington” or “Jamal Jones.”
- There was a stark difference in who made it to the next round of the hiring process, with resumes of White-sounding applicants getting 50% more callbacks.
- The report also claimed that despite a company claiming to be an “Equal Opportunity Employer,” they were just as prejudiced as others.

Bigger Companies

Diversity, Inc. named 50 companies to be most diverse

2020 Statistics

The Top 10

- Marriott International, Inc.
- Hilton
- Eli Lilly and Company
- ADP
- Accenture
- Mastercard
- Comcast NBCUniversal
- Abbott
- TIAA
- Toyota Motor North America, Inc.

Screening/Hiring

- Require high school diploma or a credential for an essentially manual task in places where minorities statistically have had high secondary school dropout rates

- Aptitude or intelligence tests used to screen applicants become discriminatory when they serve to disqualify members from minority cultures who are unfamiliar with the language, concepts, and social situations used in the tests, but who are in fact fully qualified for the job.

- Interviewers with stereotypes (next slide example) - assume certain occupations are more "proper" for women or for men based on the burdens to be imposed, commitment to the job, and putting a female in a male environment.

Unconscious Bias: Exercise

- List out the top 5-10 people you TRUST - You've let into your circle of trust
- Avoid listing family members - only friends, classmates, co-workers
- For each of those people identify the following characteristics:
  - Gender
  - Race/Ethnicity
  - Age
  - Sexual Orientation
  - Education
  - Disability (Yes or No)
  - Other

Unconscious Bias: Exercise (cont.)

Three Levels Trust

- Outer Ring/Level 3
  - Acquaintance
  - "Hi" – "Hello" – Pleasant Manners
- Middle Ring/Level 2
  - C.O.M.F.Y Zone
  - "Come on my front yard"
- Inner Circle
  - TRUST Zone

- How does it look if all the inner circle is same diversity make-up?
- What does that do to hiring process?
- What does it do once someone in the company too, e.g., promotions?

Work Allocation - Promotion

- Managers are more likely to assign key client projects to members of their team who they have an affinity (see next slide)
- If promotions rely on substantive recommendations of managers, then managers are more likely to give higher recommendations to those in which they have an affinity (see next slide)
- Managers are more likely to place Caucasian males on job tracks separate from minorities and women
- Seniority systems for work allocation and promotion will be discriminatory if history of only hiring Caucasian males and not minorities and women

Work Allocation - Promotion

Unconscious Affinity Present:

- Managers are more likely to spend time informing and discussing positive contributions to the team; and focus on development as well as future work plans with employees in which they have an affinity

Less (or no) Affinity:

- Managers are more likely to question past performance and the conversation will be less friendly and even hostile at times

Work Allocation – Promotion: Micro-Behaviors

Unconscious Affinity Present:

- Support ideas whilst in a team meeting
- Having coffee/lunch with someone that is more like you
- Engaging in activities outside of work with someone that is more like you

Less (or no) Affinity:

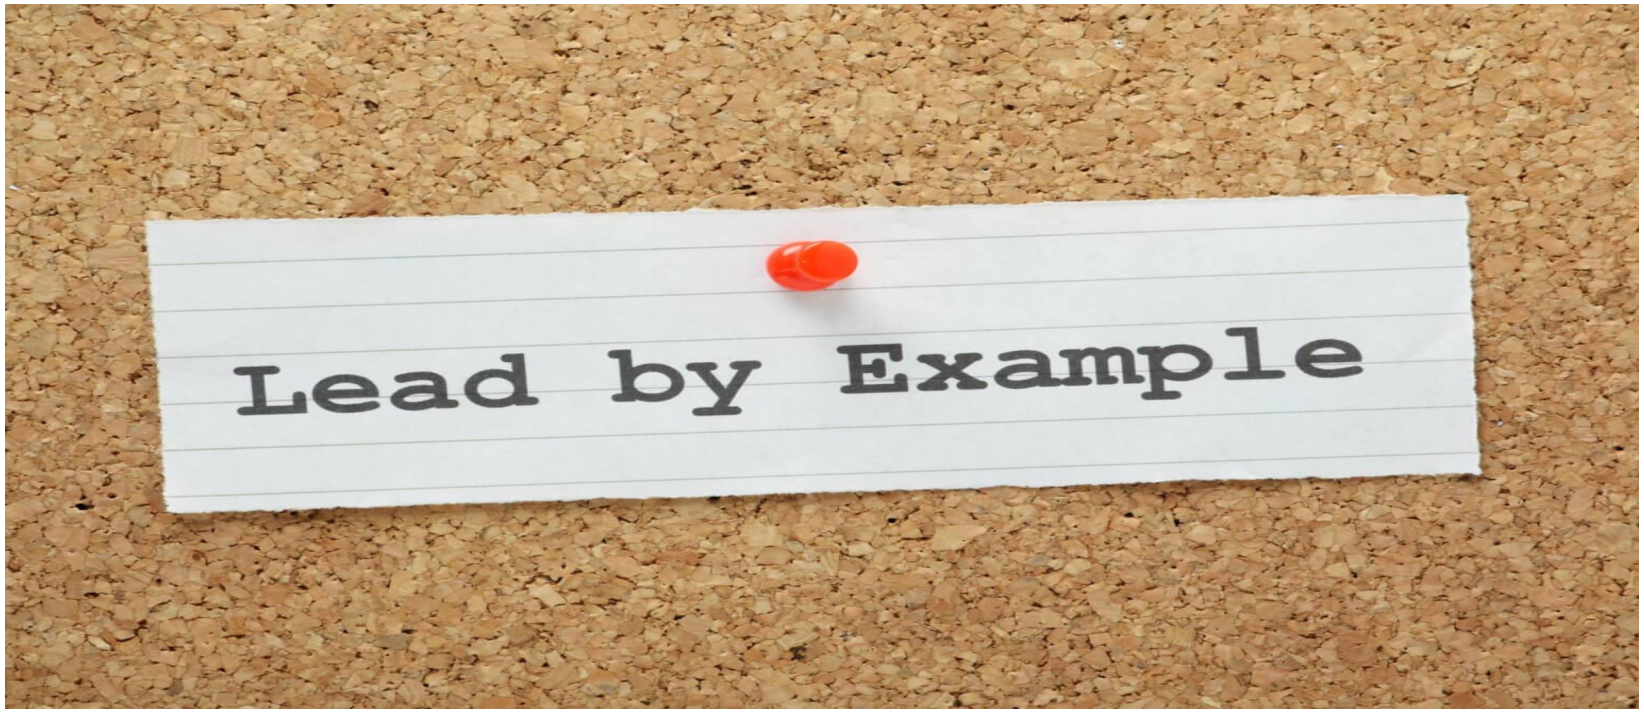

- Checking emails while talking to a colleague
- Cutting someone off in a meeting

Discharge

- Layoff policies that rely on a seniority system in which women and minorities have the lowest seniority because of past discrimination, and so considered first for discharge.

- Managers are less likely to discharge individuals in which they have an affinity

Interactions Coworkers, Third Parties, Correspondence, Other, Etc. . .

Sexual Discrimination
Hostile Work Environment

Glenn Robinson, Esq. engaged in sexual behavior with current and former clients. One of the clients included a paperclip incident and masturbation – creating a hostile work environment tantamount to sexual harassment. Also quid pro quo sexual harassment conditioned on offer of employment to a client upon submitting to unwanted sexual advances.

Suspended 2 years

In re Glenn Robinson*, 2019 Vt. 8 (Feb. 22, 2019).

Discounted Legal Fees for Sexual Favors

David Witherspoon, Esq. sought sexual favors from clients in return for discounted legal fees. Two clients, and various sexual acts on various occasions.

Suspended 1 year

In re Witherspoon*, 203 N.J. 343 (2010)

Bias or Prejudice on Sexual Orientation

Robert E. Abrams, Esq. represented a married couple to file a construction contract lawsuit against a former builder. Abrams developed a negative opinion of the judge presiding over the case. In an email to his clients, Abrams referred to the judge using derogatory slur that exhibited bias or prejudice based on sexual orientation. Clients reported him to disciplinary board.

Suspended 3 months

People v. Robert E. Abrams*, 459 P.3d 1228 (Colo. O.P.D.J. 2020).

Robo-Calls / Telemarketers

Stacy L. Kelley, Esq. claimed to be her husband's attorney when she called a telemarketer who had been trying to reach someone else with her husband's name. While on the phone with the telemarketer, she asked the representative if he was "gay" or "sweet" because she thought the male representative had a feminine-sounding voice.

Public Reprimand

In the Matter of Stacy L. Kelley*, No. 49S00-0910-DI-438 (Ind. 2010).

Tone/Civility is Important

Lawyer, McCarthy, represented a title company, was involved in a dispute regarding a cloud on a title of property, the agent representing the seller of that property had his secretary send an e-mail to McCarthy to arrange a meeting of all involved.

McCarthy sent an e-mail response stating, "I know you must do your bosses [sic] bidding at his direction, but I am here to tell you that I am neither you [sic] or his n-----. You do not tell me what to do. You ask. If you ever act like that again, it will be the last time I give any thought to your existence and your boss will have to talk to me. Do we understand each other?"

The Supreme Court order stated, "The hearing officer found that the word n----- is a derogatory racist insult, that Respondent's use of the term was not simply a historical reference to slavery but rather manifested racial bias, that he was acting as an attorney when he sent the email, and that his use of the term was not connected to legitimate advocacy," the order stated.

30 Day Suspension WITHOUT automatic reinstatement

In the Matter of Daniel C. McCarthy*, No. 41S00-0910-DI-437 (Ind. 2011).

Twerking Lawyer

During a mediation, lead defense counsel for a large company "shook his butt" at plaintiff's counsel while uttering profanity such as "do you want to F me?" and "You have a ponytail haircut, I figured you wanted to F me."

The conduct was described as "lascivious gyrating of the lower fleshy extremities". Plaintiff filed for sanctions (monetary), and defense counsel (unfortunately) responded to the court that he wanted to "put this unfortunate episode in the rearview mirror".

Judge found no sanctions and said "he has suffered enough"

National Attention/Terminated from Case

Texas Rule 8.04(4) - prejudicial to the administration of justice

Learn to Bite Your Tongue

Plaintiff Lawyer stopped a deposition to duck her head under the conference room table. Why?

When opposing counsel asked what she was doing, she indicated that she was "looking to see if there was anything between [his] legs."

Ms. Leonhardt later apologized for her conduct, and stated she lost her composure from being "chronically and persistently exposed to condescending behavior by [the opposing counsel]."

Could this be a violation of Rule 8.4(g) in Connecticut?

Racial Comments

Dorothy J. Thomsen, Esq. represented a husband in a divorce proceeding in 2003. The wife had a friend that was African-American. During the bench trial, Ms. Thomsen referred to the friend as "the black guy" and "the black man". The man's race was irrelevant to the case.

Public Reprimand

In the Matter of Dorothy J. Thomsen, No. 49S00-0502-DI-36 (Ind. 2005).

Citizenship / Immigration

Vincent M. Campiti, Esq. represented a father at a child support hearing. Mr. Campiti repeated disparaging references to the facts that the mother was not a U.S. citizen and was receiving legal services at no charge. These facts were irrelevant to the issues being considered at the hearing.

Public Reprimand

In the Matter of Vincent M. Campiti*, No. 71S00-0807-DI-400 (Ind. 2009)

Various Conduct

- Attorney made faces at opposing counsel, stuck out his tongue at her, and told her that she was a "stupid idiot" and should "go back to Puerto Rico". Florida Bar v. Martocci, 2001 Fla. LEXIS 843 (public reprimand, 2 – year probation).

- "I don't have to talk to you, little lady," "Tell that little mouse over there to pipe down," "Be quiet, little girl," and "Go away, little girl." – Principe v. Assay Partners, HRO Int'l Ltd., 154 N.Y. Misc. 2d 702 (Sup. Ct. N.Y. County, 1992).

- "Just get your foul, odious body on the other side," and "Don't use your little sheeny, Hebrew tricks on me." – In re Williams, 414 N.W.2d 394 (MN. 1987)(suspension from the practice of law).
